joined with the parents and friends to wish the boys well.

THE FEW SUBSTITUTE FOR THE MANY. Misses Harriet Berenfield and Beverly Stein (left and right) were so impressed by appeals for the emergency March of Dimes campaign that they decided "if you want a job done right, do it yourself". They displayed ingenuity that belied their ages of eight and six years, and demonstrated concern for human suffering that is lacking in many adults.

"Money goes to Polio Fund" they advertised as they stationed themselves in front of the Warren National Bank building to sell a supply of potholders they manufactured themselves. The stock was completely exhausted in a few hours on Saturday, October 2, netting a total of $5 to fight the crippling disease. Beverly's dad changed a "t" to a "d" on the display sign which was the only adult intervention.

AN EARLY LEAD over Oil City was given Warren, Friday night, when Don Mohny bulled over for the first score in the opening period. The 44 is Mohny. Mohny and Shattuck traded punches at the Oiler line and the net result was a 34-7 smearing of the big Oil City eleven.

Fourth Avenue Zoning Change Debated

The hearing held last week on the proposed change in the Warren zoning ordinance got a little off the base lines at times. The change would make Fourth ave., between Hickory and Liberty, a grade 3 commercial area.

This was brought about by the Loblaw's Grocery which has bought two properties and did have an option on a third. These properties are the last three going west on the north side, and the petitioners claim a modern building and off-street parking would replace the present old structures.

It is natural for those in this area to oppose such a move. To change a residential area to a Grade 3 commercial is quite a jump, and to create such an area on the very edge of a Grade 3 residential area probably is asking quite a bit.

In fairness to those involved it seems that there should be a buffer strip, such as a Grade 1 commercial, allowing professional offices, churches, apartments and similar buildings. In time this also might change but the alteration would be natural and gradual, giving all property owners an opportunity to make adjustments.

However, there were statements made at the hearing which require refuting and it did not seem quite fair that at least one rebuttal was not allowed. The suggestion that there has been no change in this area is ridiculous and the statement that the only changes on Liberty have been below Third obviously is incorrect.

If Warren is to grow there will be changes and the purpose of the zoning law is not to keep the community as it is but to control its growth. Where the post office stands today there was an old home, not unlike the ones involved on Fourth. This was not long ago. And on Liberty st., between third and Fourth, were other homes now gone, or used for other purposes. A home stood where the tennis court now is, and you can go down both sides in a like manner.

We got the impression from the remarks made by R. W. Steber that he thought the council was incorrect in holding such a hearing and that it should have accepted the recommendation of its planning commission which had said it did not think the change should be made. We believe this was unfair.

The role of a councilman is not an easy one, especially if he has a conscience. And we have some very conscientious, hard working men on the Warren governing body. We were present when the report of the planning commission was given and we did not hear any reasons supporting the recommendation. It simply stated that the commission did not recommend such a change at this time.

Very few hearings have been held by council to consider proposed changes to the zoning ordinance. Most of the hearings involved the original ordinance and the early adjustments. Council has been very fair in its handling of such cases and the public has not been excessive in its demands for changes. We doubt if a farce is being made either of the ordinance or of the commission.

It has been said that if council does not accept recommendations of the commission, the commission should quit. If the commission feels that way about it we are very much in favor of it doing so. The duties of this commission are very plainly stated in the state

SCOUTING OFFICIALS PRESENTED AWARDS. At the court of honor, held in the Trinity Memorial church social rooms, Tuesday evening, Jack McDonald, chairman of the post committee, introduced the scouting officials who made the various presentations. William Hill, president of Chief Cornplanter Council, presented the coveted Eagle awards; Harold L. Banghart, the council's national representative, awarded star rank to scouts William Mostert and Roger Johnson and a bronze palm to Rae Seeley. Frank Seeley, advisor of law. It is an important job, but it is not an administrative one. It is advisory. And he who advises, no matter how wisely, can not expect his advice always to be accepted. He also must present a very good set of reasons with his advice, and these should be publicly stated.

Post 1, spoke words of praise to the scouts who had advanced and challenged the remaining members of the organization to labor diligently until the pinnacle is surmounted.

As part of the ceremony, the proud mothers of the Eagles pinned the symbols of the achievements to the uniforms of their sons.

We have personal reasons for wanting Fourth ave. developed. We would be happy to see this entire neighborhood improved. But the welfare of the community as a whole is more important than a neighborhood gain. The Fourth ave. problem must be looked at in that light.

Now Up To Council

Next Monday the Warren borough council acts on the Fourth avenue proposal. We hope that the red herrings dragged across the trail will not influence this group's decision. We also hope that reasoning minds have not been affected by sharp tongues.

It is doubtful if the change will be allowed. We don't believe even a majority can be managed, but it may require more than that. If the petitioners opposing the change represent twenty per cent of the residents within a hundred feet in front and back of the affected property the majority must be three-fourths, according to attorneys who have studied the applying law. If the average sixteen councilmen out of eighteen show up, twelve must favor the change.

On the one side are the many who believe Warren should permit such a change. On the other are those who have investments in residential properties that could be adversely affected as such. No matter what anyone does, a change is taking place. How to control that change for the good of the community is the decision which council must make.

PUNCH AND COOKIES. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served to the hundreds who welcomed Miss Johnson to Warren by attending the reception given in her honor, Tuesday evening. Miss Dorothy Mathyer, senior scout of Troop 4, pours for Sally Dickerson, same troop, as she demonstrates "how it should be done".

Asides

Wage Increases are being asked by both public and private employes in Warren. Warren police and firemen are reported to be planning a request for more pay. At the Deluxe the men have not voted for a strike but it was reported this morning that they were going to shut down their machines for a half hour today as a declaration of their wish for more wages.

The Sign Says a new owner is about to open the store at McPherson and Conewango ave. For many years the Adams Market, it has changed hands many times. The new proprietor will be S. S. Watson.

What Kind Of A Racket is being worked in Pittsburgh? We have been told of three Warren residents who have been notified that they were involved in traffic violations in that city. None was there on the date mentioned in their case. One even has been accused of hitting a pedestrian.

PERFECT HOSTESSES. Girls of troop 22-A were willing hostesses for the reception given in honor of the new Girl Scout Executive Director, Miss Ursula Johnson, at the YWCA, Tuesday evening. They met each visitor at the door, spoke a friendly word of welcome, smiled and duplicated to perfection the duties of "hat check girls".

Hunting Time Wanted

The Pennsylvania Game Commission asks the editors to remind you of what this state has done for the hunters. This is to be a part of our Pennsylvania Week publicity, supporting the slogan, "It's your Pennsylvania, Keep it Growing." We then would take off on a reminder of the many who hunt because of the conservation of wildlife and forests by the state.

But we have a couple other things to say. Mainly we don't think much of the so-called break given Pennsylvania hunters. We have harped on it before and we will again. November is about as bad a month weatherwise as you can name. On a big percentage of the days in an average November it is raw, damp, and unpleasant. Football teams have stopped scheduling late games, most high schools winding up their season in mid-November. But the Commission says, go out and soak it up, boys, it is yours to enjoy.

For eleven months the hunter waits. He may feed a dog or two, buy boots, a good gun, warm clothing. And if he works for a living, as most hunters do, and if his wife prefers he vacation in some other haunt than the woods, as most wives do, our average hunter is stuck with four Saturdays.

The law of averages says that half of these will be wet and cold. He has waited eleven months, bought expensive equipment and he may hunt two good days.

October is something else. And if he wants to buy a federal stamp he may shoot a duck the last two weeks in October. And that is exactly what we mean. In two weeks he can shoot two wood ducks and one hooded Merganser. Magnificent!

He also can shoot doves, rails, woodcocks, and similar bits of fluff and bone in October. Some deal for a lovely month!

And when December turns bitter cold, usually about as cold as it is all winter, he can hunt deer! You are not supposed to enjoy this hunting business. If you get some meat, be happy!

We would like to see the entire schedule moved back at least fifteen days. With the small game season opening the middle of October, even the hunter that failed to see the hair of a hare would put in a few pleasant days afield... or awood.

Getting back to those ducks for a second, what migratory foul with any respect for his fine plumage will set it down on many portions of our dirty Allegheny, the major stream of the area? We have caught ducks in our hands, so filthy with oil they couldn't take off. This may not be so true today, but the river still is a filthy place, with sewage pouring in from most of the towns along its banks.

What is the state doing about that? With men out of work and a bit of pump priming not amiss, why not help these communities finance their sewage plants. If the state had enforced the law when it was first passed, these communities would have done the job at a fraction of the present cost.

Keep It Growing, says the slogan. Then let us use Pennsylvania Week not so much to fold our hands over our tummy and to sit back with a glow of self satisfaction, but as a time to look forward and to really make it a state of which we can be proud and in which it is a real pleasure to live.

Yes, there are many natural resources here, but we contend that as Pennsylvanians we are not making the most of them. The real record of Pennsylvania is that we have allowed a major portion of them to be grossly wasted. There is much to be done if we are to correct the errors of the past.

* * *

Sharpen Your Heads

Maybe you can't shoot a gun in Pennsylvania during October as an excuse to spend a happy day in the open, but you can fit an arrow to your bow and let fly at the white tail of a deer. Starting October 11 you can hunt the soft skinned denizen of our forests with the weapon of those who once resided within these woodlands.

This will require a 1954 hunting license and also a $2 special license which you can obtain from the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg. The season lasts two weeks.

The legal game is the buck with two or more points to an antler or an antler three or more inches long without points. And because of this early season the special game preserves for archers only are abolished. These were in Sullivan and Forest counties.

Last year 10,691 obtained October archery licenses and they pricked 84 deer sufficiently well to bring them in for eating. This is quite an increase over the first such season in 1951 when about 5,000 bowmen brought in 33 legal bucks. The next season only 24 were killed.

Just one warning, don't use a cross bow or an arrow with an explosive tip. The hours are from seven to five.

Another Wildcat Story Scuttled

John R. Spahr, a seasoned game protector, says: "Reports that wildcats were seen roaming around cottages in the Pine Grove Furnace area, about the Cumberland-Adams County Line, caused quite a scare among the summer residents."

"I went on the alert to locate the cats. One evening I spied one and shot it. The animal turned out to be a large domestic cat gone wild. It had a bobbed tail and weighed over 10 pounds. This cat very much resembled a wildcat and could have been mistaken for one at a distance."

UNBELIVABLE. Bill Baughman and his young son, Gary, hold the two pups which were born in the same litter approximately three months ago. It seems impossible but Brownie, held by Mr. Baughman, is nearly three times the size of Tiny. The dogs, "pure mongrel", have different personalities, too. Tiny is friendly and enjoys people — Brownie is shy and reserved.

GROUCHO PEDRO. Eight year old Nancy Dyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dyke of Lottsville, proudly displays her baby donkey, Groucho Pedro, and the donkey's mother, Rosetta. The blessed event took place September 17, and Mr. Dyke believes it is the first donkey born in Warren County. The baby has the appearance of its father, a burro, owned by Ed Peterson of Jamestown, N. Y.

BUYERS' CORNER

Christmas Parcels

It may seem a bit early but if you want your friend or relative in the armed forces to receive his present by Christmas you should make your mailings between October 15 and November 15. The post office says pack them securely, address them carefully, mail them early, and send no perishables.

Another Christmas Thought

The commercialization of Christmas, and of other holidays, grows steadily worse as everyone who can make a dollar through the right appeal gets into the annual act. Unable to stop this trend, perhaps we have seen an answer that will leave the Christmas season open for the activities truly related.

It appeared in the News Letter of the Warren First Presbyterian Church, and read, "How many of you make the resolution, 'This year I am going to do my Christmas shopping early so when the Yuletide season arrives, I will not be all worn out, but will be calm, rested, and able to think of the true significance of Christmas?'"

Packard Dealers Increase

It is near enough to new car time for the public to become wary of the '54 models, and dealers with heavy stocks now go through an unpleasant period. The new Studebakers are being announced this week, and the merger of the Packard with the Studebaker will mean many more dealers for the larger car.

The first price dips of the season also will be found in the Studebaker line which announces that more powerful 1955 models are selling at prices $37 to $287 under those on similar models of last year. The two-door Champion sells for as little as $1685 at the factory. The hardtop Regal convertible goes for only $2215, which is $287 less than 1954.

And the purchase of cars is supposed to be made easier this coming year by ready loans at the banks which will finance 75 per cent of new car purchases. This is five per cent higher than the number so financed last year.

Major advertising campaigns for Dodge, Plymouth, and Packard can be expected soon, and the weekly papers will enjoy a major share of it as these manufacturers annually become more aware of the grass root value of advertising in the little home town paper, so thoroughly read in the majority of cases.

Other Signs

While signs of worsening business conditions are all about us, such as a ten per cent drop in trucking, prediction of a twelve per cent reduction in railroad car loadings for the last quarter in the Great Lakes area, as compared with 1953, sales 25 billion under the $360 billion of 1953, and the government cutting down expenditures a greater amount while these signs are to be seen we also learn that the sale of sporting goods has increased as high as 20 per cent in the Pittsburgh area. More time to spend on sports, and apparently enough money to buy equipment.

Electric Equipment Show

You must have a ticket to attend the area's first Plant Electrical Show, October 13 to 14 in Erie's Gannon auditorium. Fifty leading manufacturers will have exhibits. The tickets are free, however, and can be obtained by writing Oren H. Marshall, care of Pennsylvania Electric, Erie. It is estimated that $30,000 will be spent on the exhibits.

A Bigger Screen now has been installed in the Columbia theater and will be seen for the first time Friday, when it opens under its new owners, Harold S. Eskin Amusement Enterprises, Inc. They claim a new panoramic giant screen has been installed with the picture extending to the arch opening.

Eddy Knupp will manage the theatre, which will operate on a full time basis, at popular prices. It opens for the first time, cleaned and freshly painted, at 1:45 p. m.

Power Issue Explosive

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. -- A modest and unassuming Mississippian has shaken to its foundations the much-vaunted Eisenhower power policy of partnership between the government and private enterprise on which the President is risking so much in this campaign.

In his soft-spoken testimony before a Senate judiciary subcommittee on monopoly, J. D. Stietenroth, former secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Power and Light Co., made it absolutely certain that the next Congress, whether it is Republican or Democratic, will have an investigation of the power industry. Not only the controversial Dixon-Yates contract but the whole question of the efficacy of the public utility holding company act will be at issue.

With the momentum achieved now, it easily could rival the dramatic public utility inquiries during the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt. This is an amazing reversal of the most favorable climate for the private utilities since the depression. It may prove that they made too much hay while the sun shone.

Mr. Stietenroth's former company is one of four operating subsidiaries of Middle South Utilities. Middle South Utilities is the Dixon of Dixon-Yates.

From his inside knowledge he testified that Dixon-Yates -- promoted and defended by President Eisenhower as an example of free enterprise -- is virtually risk-proof. Should there be any losses, however, he explained that the contract allows Middle South to pass them on to its operating companies. They, of course, would pass them on to their customers.

They are being guaranteed a nine percent return on their investment. Stietenroth testified that in view of the lack of risk, the money could be obtained much cheaper in the open market.

Stietenroth was fired by Mississippi Power for what he describes as a long fight for increased independence in the operations of the company, all of whose common stock is held by Middle South, a New York holding company. He had been employed by his company 27 years.

He was emotional as Committee Counsel Sidney Davis touched upon what it meant to him and his family to be fired. He was lucid, sensible and often humorous as he discussed the relationships of the big holding companies with their subsidiaries, and the complete dependence enforced upon local officials by the New York owners.

To veterans of the 30's, much of it had a familiar ring. Stietenroth returned to those days when he told how he felt the holding company act would cure the problems of the industry. But as the years passed, he said, the same absentee landlordism and domination by investors as against operating officials had largely nullified the good purposes of the act.

As sensitive as the utilities are to the attacks on Dixon-Yates, it was this blow which will hurt most. They are on the defensive again with these old wounds re-opened. A specific investigation of Dixon-Yates is one thing. The evident intent of Senators Langer and Kefauver to pursue the whole story to which Mr. Stietenroth has pointed, is very bad news indeed.

The Senate subcommittee which was refused funds to investigate Dixon-Yates will almost surely get them now. Thus the power issue which has been made more explosive in this campaign than in any of the recent past is almost guaranteed as an issue in 1956.

COUNTY NEWS in brief . . .

Bills Of $92,628 were approved by the Warren school board when it met Monday. Included was a $53,000 rental payment to the Jefferson school authority, and a $24,000 payment to the joint board. The Jefferson payment covers a half year.

The board learned that tax collections up to the September deadline had brought in $308,021, just $3,000 less than a year ago. Delinquent collections and late payments will add to this total.

The board approved the purchase of chair desks for a new room at Lacy school, and three old rooms at East. This will complete the installation of modern furniture in the elementary buildings, except at South which has enough furniture when some of the rooms soon are discontinued.

The board learned it had received $667 from the state for the May and June lunch payments, and approved expenditures of $228 for substitutes, $750 for janitor overtime, $49 for special services, $426 for cafeteria services, and $1,834 for cafeteria food.

It approved Eugene Cease as psychology tester, and purchased a leaf mulcher to facilitate the work of the groundskeepers.

Instantaneous Death for Lyald Gebhart, 22, of Pennsylvania ave., W., Warren, and injuries to his brother, William, and companion, Edwin Larson, resulted when the car in which the trio were riding skidded into a "special" freight train on the Frewsburg-Falconer road at 9 p. m. Saturday. Dense fog and an unguarded crossing took their toll as the doomed auto struck the car next to the caboose, completely demolishing the 1951 Studebaker which was owned by Larson but driven by Lyald Gebhart.

Eighty-seven Children in Warren County were examined, fitted with glasses and treated as results of the last year's efforts of the Sight Committee of the Warren Lion's club. The committee's activities have been restricted to this immediate area except for a recent contribution to the Buffalo, N. Y. eye bank.

Light Shed on Name Change. Confusion between Sunray Electric, Inc., manufacturers of fluorescent lamps, and Sunray Products Corporation, exclusive distributors of the Sunray brand, was eliminated when the action of the board of directors changed the name of Sunray Electric, Inc. to Inter-electric Corporation. Robert E. Dunham, president of Inter-electric, emphasized that there is no change in management, personnel, policies, or methods of operation — the only change is in the name.

FFA To Honor County Man. Kenneth Russell, Sugar Grove, Pa., will be one of 359 young farmers to receive the coveted American Farmer Degree when the national convention of Future Farmers of America convenes in Kansas City, October 11 through 14. Ten others from Pennsylvania are included in the group to be honored which is based on evidence of the Future Farmer member becoming successfully established in farming, his leadership and scholarship and is limited to one candidate for each one thousand members.

Kenneth graduated from Northern Area joint schools in 1951, having received part of his high school training at Youngsville. He has served his local FFA chapter as president, he received a Warren Chamber of Commerce agricultural award, he was presented the Keystone Farmer Degree, and his steer, weighing 1215 pounds, was judged grand champion at the 1952 Northwestern Pennsylvania Livestock show in a field of 287 entries.

Kenneth has one-third interest in the 225 acre farm, equipment, forty head of dairy cattle and farm operations of his father. He also owns a hay bailer, tractor, fifteen dairy cattle and ten beef animals. On October 9, Kenneth, his father, and County Vocational Education Advisor T. R. Sponsler, will leave for Kansas City where the awards of certificate and gold key from the FFA and a $50 check from the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc., will be presented. Four of the 359 competitors will be named regional star farmers and one will be designated star farmer of America.

An Orchid To Chief Cornplanter Boy Scout Council from Region III headquarters for 39.7 camping percentage and 40.6 percent of its membership subscribing to Boys' Life, was reported by National Council Representative Harold L. Banghart who attended the region's annual meeting in Roanoke, Va., last week end. Other reports from the regional meeting presented to the executive board of the local council in the office of the United Refinery, Monday evening included Finances and Exploring by Clifford Betts, Camping discussions by Carl Rogers, and James Wright reported on the Organization and Extension Committee.

The Board adopted a change in rental rates for Camp Jefmore, suggested by James Blomquist, Camping Chairman, to read as follows: No charge for scouting units; $2.50 per night for other organizations.

"My Three Angels", the latest comedy of Sam and Bella Spewack, which will be presented by the Warren Players at the Woman's Club, October 21 and 22, depicts three convicts who are passionate believers in the "Robin Hood" of Man. The background of the infamous French penal colony, Devil's Island, challenged the comic inventiveness of the popular writing pair, as they revealed how the three angels set about to solve the fiscal and romantic problems of an impoverished family that befriended them.

Fred Plummer, Lou Critelli and Andy Yurick will play the roles of the ingenious rogues. Gerald McGee, Gloria Valone, Betty Hartung, Evelyn Donnelly, Paul Meyers, George Konkel and Kenneth Peterson round out the all star cast assembled by Director Byron W. Knapp for the play.

Two Were Hospitalized and three cars were damaged in an accident at 12:50 a. m., Sunday. John O'Neil, 315 Union St., Warren, who was traveling west on Fourth ave. struck a car operated by Gerald J. Inter, Pittsfield, who was traveling south of Hickory st. The force of the impact drove the Inter car into a car owned by Melvin Moylan, Clarendon, which was parked on Hickory st. in front of the Elks' club. O'Neil and Inter were both taken to the hospital for treatment of cuts and puncture wounds. The O'Neil car was damaged to the extent of $1,000, the Inter vehicle, $700 and Moylan's parked car, $150.

A Traffic Light Violation charge was brought against Curtis O. Rulander, R. D. 2, Pittsfield, who failed to stop for a red light, when traveling west on Pennsylvania ave. at the intersection of Hickory st., and struck a car operated by Dennis Snyder, R. D. 3, Warren. The accident which caused a total of $750 in damages occurred at 7:30 p. m., October 2.

Current Smoking Survey and mass X-rays were thoroughly discussed at the annual conference of the State Cancer Society held in Pittsburgh last week end, according to reports given by delegates Martha Lupold and Dr. John E. Thompson at the first executive meeting of the Warren County Cancer Society, Tuesday night. Knox Harper was appointed as 1955 cancer crusade chairman. Dr. Albert Eberly, Dr. Robert Donaldson, and Dr. J. R. Sugerman were appointed on the education committee. Dr. Thompson, newly-elected president of the county society, reported that unrecognized cancer cures and "quacks" were also considered at the Pittsburgh meeting.

Farmers' Aid. It was announced by Ivan McKeever, state conservationist, that John R. Berkebile has been appointed to the staff of the soil conservation service at Warren. Mr. Berkebile is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University with a degree in Agronomy.

Mr. Berkebile will work with Ralph G. Eckert, who is in charge of the soil conservation service program in Warren County, and will be located in the offices maintained in the Court House Annex. Technicians from the soil conservation service work with farmers in the development of conservation surveys and conservation farm plans for their farms. They also give necessary technical help in the installation of the more difficult conservation practices.

Philatelic Enthusiasts met in the YMCA Monday evening, under the supervision of Advisor John Stachowiak, and organized a stamp club. The twelve members elected Edward Ball, president, David Hughes, vice president, Rick Gebhardt, secretary-treasurer. The group decided to continue holding their meetings at 9 p. m. on Mondays and request that the interested boys bring their albums and duplicate stamps to next week's meeting.

Thanks were extended to Lyle Schuler, Dr. H. R. Robertson, and John Schults for generous contributions of stamp collections.

URSULA JOHNSON, Executive Director of Warren-Forest Girl Scout Council, as photographed at the reception given in her honor, Tuesday evening in the YWCA.

Rear Admiral Robert Lee Dennison will be presented the Pennsylvania Ambassador Award at 8 p. m., Wednesday, October 13, on the portico of Warren's municipal building. The presentation will highlight Warren's observance of Pennsylvania Week which will be celebrated October 10 through 17.

The items comprising the award have been arranged for display in the window of the Warren National Bank by Myron Munson. There is a hand-lettered framed scroll furnished by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce and a hand-wrought aluminum plaque with leather brief-case cover, which is given to all former Pennsylvanians receiving the ambassador award, by the Aluminum Company of America.

Warren On The Way

The Warren high school football team finally lived up to its pre-season expectations Friday evening, when it came to life in the second half of the game at Oil City. When the power plays got rolling, with Shattuck and Mohny sharing the load, interspersed by some fast work on the part of Mahaffey, Oil City was unable to stay the attack.

Mohny got one early for the Dragons after a series of plays, following a fumble recovered by Mahaffey, had brought the ball close to the Oil line. Don then bulled through for the score. Rose missed.

Oil City threatened in the second when the Warren offense could not seem to get rolling. A big line-man was placed in the backfield and proved hard to stop for a few plays. But Warren kept shoving the Oilers back until they clicked on a series just before half time. With a few seconds to go, a pass was flipped over the too close Dragon backs and a score was tallied. The point was run.

When the second half started Warren had left behind its bungling of plays and began to look like a smooth machine. The scores began to pop. Jack Shattuck scattered Oilers for 25 yards and a score. Rose made it.

In the fourth Mahaffey took it to the two and Graziano went over. Rose did it again. Then Tommy LeTrent intercepted a pass, Mohny and Mahaffey took turns to the five, and Mohny crashed through. Rose accommodated.

In went the seconds, another intercepted pass, two long runs by Greco, a fancy pass-out play to Lopez and the fifth TD was on the board. Rose, now fully warmed up, couldn't miss.

And so back to Memorial Field and a visit by Meadville, considered the power in the league. However, if Warren continues to improve, continues to drive, and is at full strength we again believe it will take one.

Meadville comes in with two seat backs, but Warren is showing much improvement defensively. In Viola it has a line-backer that is in on ninety percent of the tackles. Follow Viola and you will find the play. Graziano is a tough defender, and Mahaffey's speed gets him to spots left naked. LeTrent was at his best in Oil City and if Meadville brings a passing attack the Warren backs should look better against it than they did in the Franklin contest.

Juniors Lose

Warren's Junior Varsity lost a score on a penalty, allowed a Sheffield back to run back a kick-off following a fluke, and thereby lost its chance to come back from the Sheffield home-coming game with at least a tie. The score, 20 to 6, Sheffield.

Sheffield in the second half showed the kind of power which may prove tough on its traditional rival, Youngville, which it meets Saturday, on the Eagle field. However, Youngville is not small and looked better while losing to Saegertown, 20 to 13, the deciding score coming in the last 25 seconds on a pass. Youngville was the first to score on Saegertown this fall, suggesting no lack of power in its ranks. It should be quite a game on Wilder field, and a major county attraction.

Sheffield won its home-coming with some good football in the second half, first on a series of power plays with big Johnson pounding the center effectively.

RUNNERS-UP. The Merchants team took the first half of the Warren Industrial softball league, made a race of it the second half, and won two of the five play-off games with the Texans. Front row, Rex Graham, Phil Colosimo, Capt. Riel Bonavita, Mgr. Joe Muscaro, Bob Valone. Back row, Rickey Scalise, Ray Scalise, Frank Nichols, Ned Bartholomew, Ken Sorenson, and Dick Smith.

Once in scoring position, the big and fast Mickey Watts went around left end for a counter. A few minutes later Bob Burlingame laid a beauty in the arms of Bob Hoden who took it on the run in the end zone.

The first Sheffield score came in the opening quarter on one of those unrehearsed delays. Mickey Watts found a ball hard to handle on the kick-off. While he was juggling the elusive oval, the green Warren seconds converged in a group about to pounce. Mickey headed for the sidelines and ran around the whole team. Earlier, Greco cut back through the Wolverine line for a score which was lost on a penalty. A few plays later he did it again for real. But Sheffield then settled down and Warren went nowhere.

In The Area

Northern Area won a game from Union City, 18 to 0, and the Knights now may be off.

Franklin proved that Corry is a shade over-rated and quite a few shades lucky, by beating the Beavers, 6 to 0. And it won't be Corry's last defeat of the season. It has a rocky road ahead.

Erie Prep dumped Jamestown, 14 to 0, and no Erie schools look like powerhouses this year. Maybe Warren has a chance on its home field.

Erie Tech just edged East, 6 to 0, Vincent was humbled by Washington, 40 to 20, and Academy squeaked by Ashtabula, 7 to 0.

Greenville spanked Titusville, 27 to 7, even as Warren could do in full stride. DuBois got by Bradford 13 to 12 after the Owls had scored twice in the first quarter.

Johnsonburg surprised Kane and many experts by winning 37 to 21. Millcreek in an off year just got by Girard, 7 to 6, Fairview continued to add up its undefeated figures, the count of which we have lost, by beating Cambridge Springs, 26 to 21.

In the big time, New Castle snagged Sharon, 13 to 12, and Vandergrift beat Farrell, 12 to 0.

For signs of things to come watch Bradford play Strong Vincent, Tech meet Millcreek, and Prep play Academy. All will have a bearing on Warren's future.

FIRST MAN HOME in the final series game between the Texas and the Merchants for the Warren Industrial league crown was Mgr. Whitey. Here he comes into third as the hitter turns first and the defense moves into position to stop further progress. Sam Rich is coaching, Smitty is behind him on third, and it probably is the short stop watching the ball arrive, as the runner prepares to slide.

TACKLE COMING UP. We believe this is Warren's Jack Shattuck about to be hit by an Oiler, last Friday, after he had made a sweeping gain around left end. On one occasion Jack clobbered through most of the Oil City team for a 25-yard TD gallop. The final result, 34 to 7 for the Dragons.

GOP California Trouble

By Thomas L. Stokes

LOS ANGELES -- There are two matters hardly in the category of issues that are giving Republicans trouble in their campaign here in California in this critical year. Both are involved likewise in the campaign all over the country, though one has a peculiar wrinkle in this state.

We'll take that up first.

This is the argument, coming to be stressed more and more by Republican speakers, that President Eisenhower needs a Republican Congress to avoid a "divided government" that might produce a stalemate between the Executive and Congress. Republicans concede that many Democrats in Congress have supported the President in his first two years in office and probably will continue to do so on matters of vital national interest, whatever party controls Congress. But, they argue, the President must have a Republican Congress so that his party and Administration will control committees that handle the President's legislative program. Otherwise, they contend, there would be no line of authority from the White House to and through Congress, but a possible blockade if Democrats controlled the machinery of Congress, including its committees.

Republicans report that they are having difficulty getting this line of reasoning over to voters here in California. This is because of the traditional lack of emphasis here on party and party labels encouraged by the cross-filing system under which candidates can enter the primaries of both parties and win both nominations, as has often happened. Consequently you had in the California legislature, and also in California's delegation in the House of Representatives in Washington to a lesser extent, members who got the support of both parties and so had no obligation to any party. There was very little party responsibility as most states know it in the California legislature, a condition that often frustrated Governors of California who were trying to put through a program. With the public generally, the emphasis was on men, rather than party.

The cross-filing law recently was modified to require designation of candidates by party, but the old modes of thinking persist, as Republicans are finding out in trying to preach the necessity of a Republican Congress for the President. One of them who has just returned from a canvass of the whole state put it thus:

"There is, for example, a Democratic Congressman running for re-election whom voters like. He tells them he has supported the President, which is the case, and will continue to do so, which may or may not happen, of course. The voters like him; they like the President. They have become accustomed to vote for men, rather than party. This makes it hard to get them to see the importance of Administration and party control of committees."

Republicans frankly are handicapped in their arguments about the necessity of a Republican Congress because it was not so long ago that the shoe was on the other foot. You recall how in the 1946 election, halfway through Truman's first term, Republicans won control of Congress, the famous 80th Congress, and there was the "divided government" about which they are now raising an alarm. They are very proud of the 80th Congress which Mr. Truman denounced so bitterly. Their campaign handbook this year recites the record, including the Taft-Hartley labor law, and party leaders speak boastfully of how that Congress blocked Fair Deal measures proposed by President Truman.

The other matter that is plaguing Republican campaigners — here as elsewhere — is something that happened many months ago. This was the characterization of the Democratic party as the "party of treason" and of the Roosevelt-Truman regime as "twenty years of treason" by Senators Jenner (R., Ind.) and McCarthy at Lincoln Day dinners last February.

You recall the resentful outcry of Democrats. Nor have they forgotten. Anybody who thinks they have has not been around Democrats in this campaign. You find, too, that the party slander is perhaps most offensive to conservative Democrats of the old school who never had any particular fondness for either Roosevelt or Truman. The Jenner-McCarthy tirade, as a matter of fact, has needed into action some sunshine, fair weather Democrats who never took any interest in off-year elections such as that in November.

This explains a routine through which Senator Knowland of this state, Senate Administration leader, goes as he makes campaign speeches about this state. At some point or other he takes time out to insist that Democrats are loyal and patriotic citizens, and that the only "party of treason" is the Communist party.

The first time you hear this as you listen to the Senator it startles you, coming gratuitously and out of the blue as it were. It has a condescending, stuff-shirt sound, though Senator Knowland does not mean it that way at all. He is very earnest. When you listen to Democrats speak up bitterly about the Jenner-McCarthy line of attack, you understand this "Knowlandism."

If Democrats should capture control of the Senate in the November election, Senators McCarthy and Jenner would be deposed from their committee chairmanships. You might be surprised to find out that some voters regard this as reason enough to give the President a Democratic Congress.

ALLEN IN CONFUSION

"Tonight," the latest of Sylvester L. Weaver's brain children, exploded all over the midnight air from here to Omaha the other night and from the exasperated noises emitted by its proprietor, Steve Allen, I guess everything went wrong that could go wrong. Still, if Allen can be that funny when things get fouled up, I hope they never get them straightened out.

"Tonight," (NBC-TV 11:30 p. m. to 1 a. m. EST Mondays through Fridays) is the companion piece of "Today" and "Home" and like those two shows it embodies what Mr. Weaver is wont to call the magazine concept of selling. In brief, that means that instead of being assaulted by one sponsor, we are assaulted by about eighty-three. As a matter of fact, "Today" in 1953 did have exactly eighty-three sponsors ranging from General Motors to Appian Way Pizza Pie Mix.

At the very outset Mr. Allen, looking decidedly harassed, announced: "Boy, have we ever been making last minute changes around here. I admit that's not funny in Omaha. We were going to show you the Empire State Building. The Hudson River was going to flow the other way — but somebody goofed. This is 'Tonight' and I want to give you the bad news right now. This show is going to go on and on and on, forever. This is the Hudson Theater. I think it sleeps 800 people. This show — well, it's not a spectacular. It's kind of a monotony. And if this show is anywhere near as successful as 'Today' and 'Home,' they're going to put on another show called 'Son of Tonight.'

That's the kind of humor Allen has — a sort of late at night, earthy, "Aaah, the hell with it" kind of humor that is entirely suitable to that hour. Apparently, NBC had sent out a Cadillac with a remote unit aboard that was supposed to bring in something or other but the driver got pinched or something. "This is the first network that ever got a ticket."

Stations kept either latching on to the program or dropping it at fifteen minute intervals and Allen kept hopelessly saying hello to the newcomers and goodbye to the others and trying to explain what it was all about to the new arrivals. "I've never done such a confusing program in my life. I think we started about noon." And he tried to explain again to the people in the midwest about that Cadillac, concerning which we in the east were already hopelessly confused. "We're all going to hold hands and have a community sleep. Synchronize your sleeping pills."

Allen had a long, impressive schedule on a clipboard which he kept riffling through to find out what was supposed to be happening at that precise moment — but none of the things that were supposed to be happening were happening. His guest star, Wally Cox, appeared with his copy of the schedule and said: "I've been looking at this schedule and I guess I better leave." Cox started to walk off but Allen got him back.

"No, that would be giving you short shrift," said Allen. Then he added: "Short shrift — that's a good name. General Foods ought to put out something called Short Shrift. Buy a box of Short Shrift."

"Or you could buy a box of Long Shrift and have it shortened," suggested Cox — and then went into his "Gee, what a crazy guy" routine which is about as funny as anything can be.

Every so often, the out-of-town stations dropped the show for one minute to sell things and this left Allen with one minute of time and his New York audience and nobody else. It's a tough assignment, one minute. "I've got some thirty-four second jokes," he announced. "And I've got a dance that takes forty-two seconds. But I haven't got any fifty-seven second jokes."

During the rest of the hour and a half, Allen played the piano; a girl singer named Pat Marshall sang "Fine and Dandy"; Gene Rayburn gave the news and participated in a sketch with Allen; and there was an interview with Willy Mays, the most interviewed man since Charles A. Lindbergh. But mostly it was just Allen. At one point, wandering through the audience, he asked a young lady if she wanted to wave at anyone at home.

"No, I guess they're all asleep," said the young lady.

"Thanks," muttered Allen. "Thanks a lot. There goes a $4,000,000 advertising account."

For future shows we are promised big name stars, and interviews with theatrical folk, and service features — and, oh, all sorts of things. I expect eventually everything will be neat and tidy and run like clockwork. But it won't be nearly so much fun.

If high school athletes had allowed their opposition to pull what we saw on TV Sunday the grandstand coaches would be talking yet. On the opening kick-off the Cardinal back took the ball and ran right straight down the center of the field for a score. No floaters or safety men were back there just in case. And these boys are pros?

How Foolish?

How darned foolish can you get we are inclined to wonder as we battle off the semi-slumber that results from watching many television dramas. With TV, how can people suffer from insomnia?

Not long ago we watched a girl and her boy friend try to prove she was the daughter of a couple. Living with the couple was her college room-mate who said she was the daughter and was very sympathetic about the girl's illusion.

This suggested some stark motive on the part of the parents and the room-mate for denying their daughter, if she were the daughter. There was a hint of money coming to her. No one seemed to be able to prove or disprove if she was the daughter.

She tried to think of such things as writing she had done as a girl around the house, or things she had hidden. The neighbors were no help because the family just had moved into the town. But how about relatives, birth records, finger-prints, neighbors in the towns in which they formerly had resided, old friends of the family, and you add them from there?

We never did learn how the business came out because both networks were so bad that we were dialing back and forth, hoping one of them would start to make sense so we could return to our chair and go back to sleep. The thing was so ridiculous that we got to wondering how the writers could get themselves out of such a senseless mess. But we missed the ending between dial. Will some one tell us who was the daughter.... and did someone go to jail?

Then this week we stayed tuned to a jungle picture about a guy who was held captive to read Dickens to a mad man. This we continued to watch because we had seen it before and couldn't remember how it ended. We still don't know because it took off into thin air with the proud statement that the sponsor was happy to bring this flash from a great story and tune in next week so we can leave you stranded again.

It was a bad week end on television for us, starting with the silly business of scheduling the world series so that the fourth game came on Saturday with a New York team involved. These New Yorkers (salve for Yankee fans) believe in the four-day week as a peek back at world series records will prove, and we never did get to even a TV slumber seat.

Saturday we spent chasing sophomore football and softballs. We watched Sheffield play its homecoming game against a fighting little group of Warren Jayvees whose legs looked like something that came out of a toothpick bowl, and whose pants looked as though they might not stay up.

In fact one pair that was held up with rubber bands or scotch tape looked vaguely familiar and could have been worn by a fellow not far from this typewriter who in a similar position, horizontal that is, watched a Wolverine team of days long gone. We say watch, because there is little else you can do when cleats and sky are all you see for the worst part of an afternoon.

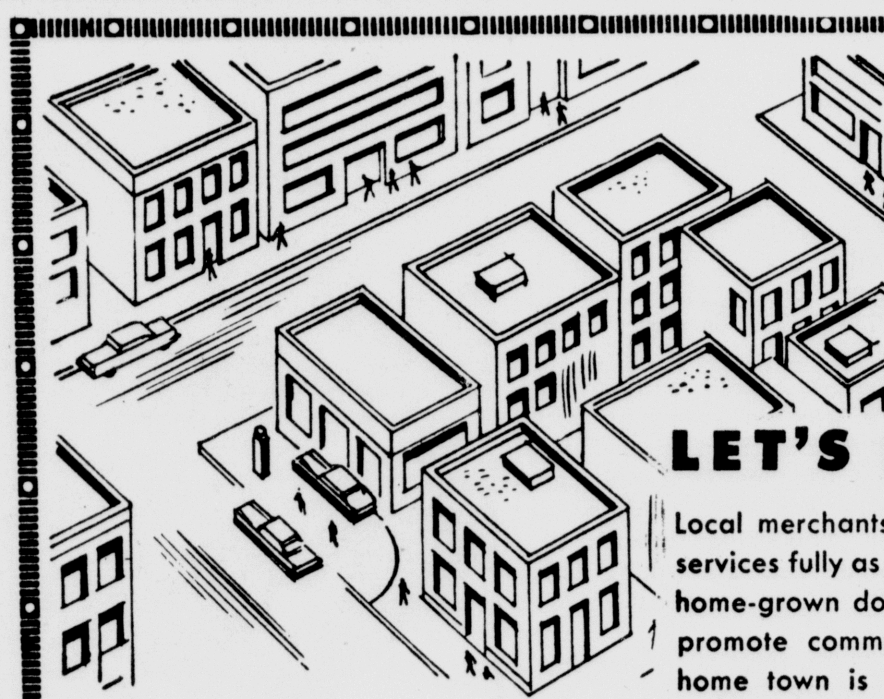

But getting back to those pants, we object to our boys appearing before home-coming crowds of the host team, donned in something that went out with the bustle. Or didn't they wear pants with a bustle? But the kids showed promise, and there was one slim infant there who looked suspiciously like Frank Sirianni. If this is more than a suspicion, Warren may have a line backer of terrific proportions in a pair of years. Now, if we had a bit of a Check, a smattering of Wolfe, a dash of McKeehan, and large chunk of Zerbe to flavor this autumn dish we would look forward to some very colorful afternoons about 1956.

And we did see most of those same gentlemen later in the afternoon when the Merchants took on the Texas Lunch for the Industrial softball league crown. The Merchants apparently had been watching the Cleveland half of the world series and appeared to be suffering from a psychological block which had strongly suggested to them the inadvisability of either striking a ball with a bat or holding it in the hand.

The Hot Dogs with everying on the bases, including Louie and Warny Check, and Tink and Art on the sidelines, got nine runs and gave up three as the sun truly set on the softball season, and a hurricane day for your boy with the camera.

The memories were given quite a loosening that day. A Sirianni coming up, the Checks still hustling, and on the same team were two Browns, Bill and Harold. Bill still is burning that ball to second with no more than a flick of his first finger joint. And Harold, well there was the guy who ran around, over, and through what looked like a big Red team at Jamestown one hot Saturday afternoon. Brownie cut them down to size, then shredded the pieces.

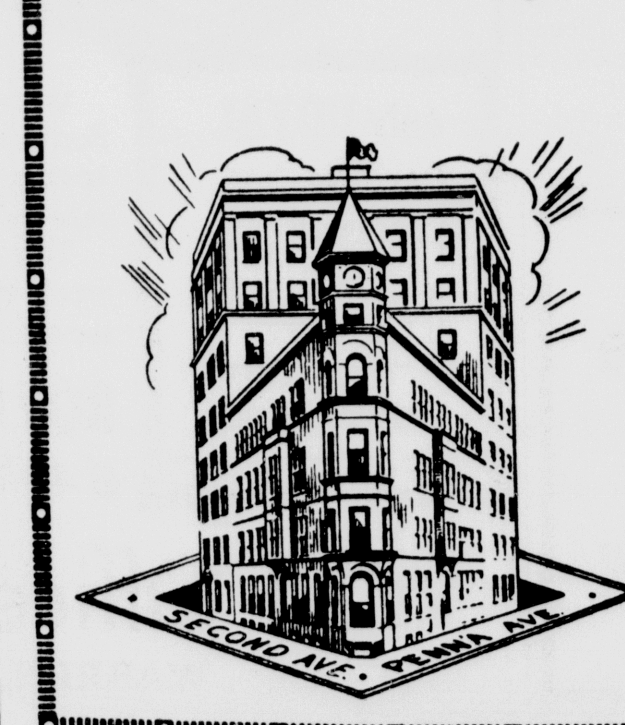

This has been quite a cycle. We started talking about TV plays, and....well, when you sleep you dream.....

OBSERVATIONS

By Bob Walsh

Cut Juvenile Delinquency

The English have come up with a large part of the answer to what is called juvenile delinquency. They have reduced it fourteen per cent in one year, and in only one crime in twenty have Britain delinquents resorted to violence since the changes were made. Four probation homes and two juvenile courts have been closed because the young criminals or potential criminals have decreased in number.

According to Between the Lines, this improvement has been accomplished through a plan which is based on the belief that children must be taught to behave. They are not born educated and are not naturally good citizens. They must learn these things and such learning must be supported by related practices.

One major step was the organization of many youthful clubs, with one city, Liverpool, forming 600 new ones.

Another happy thought, we think, has been the punishing of parents. In numerous cases, parents of young offenders have been fined heavily!

Punishment also has been found to be a vital part of the program when applied directly to the delinquents. On the Isle of Man, flogging was restored. The child crime rate dropped greatly. This might be an appropriate punishment for the young hot rods who are risking the lives of all about them with insane driving.

Discipline has become excellent in the schools since corporal punishment has been permitted.

Another part of the program has been the control of movies and TV. Television has not been allowed to present any kind of program as long as a sponsor is willing to pay for it, and children are barred from movies that are graded as suitable only for adults. In view of New York's present effort to control cartoon books along the same lines we must be fully aware of the danger here.

Why No Voting Records

We have explained this before, but questions continue to be asked and we will explain the problem again. We are asked why we do not publish all the voting records of our elected representatives in Harrisburg and Washington. The reason is that we do not have them!

We pay a fairly high price for a searching editorial service in Washington, and for that reason we are able to give you the voting record of Congressman Leon H. Gavin, and of the senators. But we have been unable to find an unbiased service of this kind in Harrisburg.

We can obtain the records through the officials, themselves, or through the political parties involved. We do not believe that such reports would be unbiased in all cases. We also can obtain them through organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce. Again we are leary of the interpretation that might be placed on the decisions reached by our legislators.

In fact, in this democratic nation we find it impossible for your newspaper to obtain daily releases telling what is transpiring in either capital. The price is heavy for congressional records, and to peruse them thoroughly is time consuming.

THREE IN A ROW. The Texas Lunch boys are the Industrial softball league champs of Warren, after a strong finish. They lost the first half, then had rough going to take the second. Meeting the Merchants in the five-game play-off, they lost the first two. Then they went to work, winning three in a row. The last one was Saturday, 9 to 3, with Bob Harrison pitching. Ken Sorenson was the losing pitcher, but it was poor fielding that really got him in trouble. Front row, Harold Brown, Bob Harrison, Hud Berdine, Mgr. Jack White, Monk Murphy, Sam Rich. Second row, Bill Brown, Warnie Check, Capt. Bill Massa, Perk Cameron, Dave Main, Louie Check, Arnold Cunningham, Fran Master-son, and in the front is Dick Lucia.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA. Joseph V. Passaro, principal of Warren Area High School, conducted the installation of officers for the Future Business Leaders of America club in the auditorium, Tuesday evening at 7:30. It was disclosed that the Warren organization is the largest in its region, which includes schools as distant as the New England states.

HUGE SUCCESS. The Warren Woman's Club "Country Market" was declared a huge success by the members after they sold nearly everything that was displayed on the lawn in front of the club, Friday, October 1. Part of the reason for the success, no doubt, is the high-pressure salesmanship illustrated above as Mrs. Ben Mathis, Mrs. L. M. Schaeffer, Mrs. M. H. Lewis, and Miss Mildred Blair sell a plant to Dr. J. J. Rogan.

NATION'S SECOND LARGEST. The annual Red Leaf Rally, sponsored by the Auto Sports Club of Warren, got underway at 1 p. m., Sunday, from Wilder Field. The entry list of 147 cars rates this rally to be the second largest of its kind ever held in the United States, the larger one being a California affair several years ago. It took one hour and forty minutes for the cars to be started at one minute intervals.

N. Y., driving car No. 3 had only three points against them which were recorded for being three seconds overtime for the entire seventy mile course. Marks drove his M. G. TD over four different types of roads and at five different speeds in posting his excellent score.

Josephine Pace of Warren, driving a Jaguar XK120 drop-head, with Barbara Yost of Erie, navigator, took the honors in the ladies division.

SPLIT-SECOND TIMING. Tom Mooney, driver, and Geraldine Ernst, navigator, await the go-ahead sign from starter S. W. Blackman as they are ready to move their M. G., numbered 127 for the rally. Instructions were presented to the contestants by Henry J. Dahl, activities chairman of the Auto Sports Club and chairman of the rally committee.

The British Empire Motor Club of Toronto, Canada gained the distinction of having the most cars entered from one organization when they boosted the total by twenty entries.

The winners, Charles Marks and Robert Wrench both of Lakewood,
